

Dr. Richard Kaye didn't begin his career in publicity or entrepreneurship. Trained first as an electronics engineer and later earning a Doctor of Chiropractic, his lifelong curiosity about how things work, in machines and in people, became the foundation for a career devoted to trust, credibility, and human potential.

He is the recipient of the White House President's Lifetime Achievement Award.

For more than three decades, Richard served patients in San Diego, California, where he discovered that true healing extends beyond the physical. It's rooted in trust. That understanding led him to explore communication and visibility, soon appearing on television networks such as ABC and PBS and in publications like Forbes. He realized that credibility, once verified through trusted media, multiplies credibility.

Following a powerful inner calling, Richard closed his thriving practice and moved to Taos, New Mexico, to begin a new chapter: helping entrepreneurs and thought leaders expand their influence. As Vice President of Income Builders International/CEO Space, he mentored thousands in strategy, visibility, and sustainable growth, guiding professionals from "hidden to headline."

Today, as an executive with Top Talent Agency, Richard helps mission-driven clients earn the recognition they deserve, securing placements on ABC, NBC, CBS, FOX Business, and Bloomberg, as well as features in major newspapers and magazines nationwide. His leadership has earned him the Top Talent Lifetime Achievement.

From his home in Taos, which he shares with his wife and partner, Angel, Richard continues mentoring leaders around the world. His mission is clear: to help good people with meaningful missions become seen, trusted, and respected.

Because when your life and business are built on trust, opportunity doesn't need to be chased. It comes looking for you.